D. Principal Risk Factors relating to the Guarantor

The following risks have been identified as being significant and specific to the Guarantor and of a nature, should they materialise, to have a significant negative impact on its business activity, its financial position and its access to various sources of financing:

- 1) Credit and counterparty risks, which include credit risks on its corporates and financial institutions counterparties, risk on sector or individual concentration, counterparty risk on market transactions, credit risk related to securitization transactions as well as country and sovereign risks;
- 2) Financial risks, which include market risk, risk of change in the value of its securities portfolio, foreign exchange risk, transformation risk, liquidity risk, risk of change in the value of equity investments, and global interest rate risk;
- 3) Operational risks and associated risks, which include compliance and legal risks and other operational risks including information system security risks;

- 5) Climate and environmental risk; and
- 6) Risks relating to the structure of the Crédit Agricole Group.

3.4 What are the main risks specific to securities?

There are risk factors which are material for the purpose of assessing the risks related to the Certificates, including the following:

1. The trading price of the Certificates may fall in value as rapidly as it may rise and Certificateholders may sustain a total loss of their investment;
2. The Certificates may have no established trading market when issued, and one may never develop. If a market does develop, it may not be very liquid. Illiquidity may have an adverse effect on the market value of the Certificates;
3. The implementation in France of the EU Bank Recovery and Resolution Directive could materially affect the rights of the Certificate holders, the price or value of their investment in the Certificates and or the ability of the Guarantor to satisfy its obligations under the Certificates;
4. French insolvency law could have an adverse impact on Certificate holders seeking repayment in the event that the Issuer, the Guarantor or its subsidiaries were to become insolvent and could have a material adverse effect on the market value of the Certificates;
5. The risk relating to the unsecured nature of the Certificates and the Guarantee, the absence of negative pledge and debt restrictions with respect to the Issuer and the Guarantor, all of which could have an adverse effect on the market value of the Certificates;
6. The optional redemption feature of the Certificates might negatively affect the market value of the Certificates;
7. The Early Redemption Amount and the Final Redemption Amount of the Certificates are dependent upon changes in the market value of the Underlying(s), which could adversely affect the market value of the Certificates. In addition, the Early Redemption Amount and the Final Redemption Amount may be less than the nominal amount of the Certificates and the holders of Certificates may lose all or part of the amount of the principal invested;
8. An investment in the Certificates does not confer any legal or beneficial interest in the Underlying(s) or any voting rights, right to receive dividends or other rights that a holder of the Underlying(s) may have. Potential losses in value of the Certificates cannot be compensated by other income; and
